

I support the "Do Not Call" restrictions. Our phone number is also on the federal government's list, and I still get about three calls a day. Living in a two story house, I had to get another phone jack installed upstairs because I constantly have to run downstairs to answer the phone for yet another solicitor. It is maddening, and I am now removing our name from the telephone directory in the hopes of stopping unwanted solicitations. Now when solicitors call they say they are not sales people but "courtesy callers" and this just insults my intelligence. Please do not weaken these laws.
